

ACEE Narratives Project Classroom Workshops Team

SHELAGH PYPER B.SC.

Director of Education and Outreach, Fuse Consulting Ltd.

Shelagh is a passionate environmental educator, and is thrilled to be working with the ACEE team on the youth narratives project!

Her background is in STEM Outreach and science communication and she approaches all her science communication projects from an educational lens. This makes her especially effective at considering the existing knowledge of the reader, what will motivate them to learn more, and how to make the information relevant to their experience. That's why she is so interested in helping to better understand the values, views and environmental literacy of Albertan youth.

Shelagh is a certified trainer of the HIGH FIVE Principles of Healthy Child Development and is an approved contractor with the Parkland School Division, thereby having a clean Criminal Record and Child Welfare Record Check as well as meeting their referrals and insurance requirements. She also has her Childcare Level 1 for licensed childcare programming and is a certified and active NCCP coach.

MARIA GRANADOS B.Arts

Program Coordinator at ACEE

Maria Granados joined ACEE in November 2018 as Program Coordinator. In her role, she leads the Connecting classrooms to Professionals programs and is collaborating on the Youth Narratives Project and ACEE's annual Recharge conference. Maria has her Bachelor of Arts in Geography with an embedded certificate in Sustainability Studies from the University of Calgary. She is also a certified UN Sustainable Development Goals Advocate and is passionate about work that contributes to the SDG goals, especially quality education and climate action (goals 4 and 13)!

Maria comes from a long family of teachers and is excited to work in the classroom on the Youth Narratives Project to better understand the language and narratives that resonate with youth in order to effectively communicate energy and environmental issues.
